Randy,

The "Jest for Fun" show for Iowa State University students was a huge success! The room was full and the students really enjoyed it. Deanna and Dustin were great in "Bullets in the Bathtub"!

We really did not know what to expect, not having an event like this on campus before. And we also were not sure how things would work out with only two actors. But they did such a good job, and were hilarious all night long! They ad-libbed and worked around some issues (we had horrible microphone feedback for a little while), and they found just the right people in the audience to get involved. Sometimes our students will shy away from events that are interactive and get worried about talking in front of each other – but they all did their thing.

The event was so successful that the ISU AfterDark group talked about possibly having a murder mystery dinner event every semester. Thanks so much for coming to Ames and Iowa State University – and please send our thanks to Deanna and Dustin!

Sincerely,

Kerri Roesner
